Public Statement Re: Closure of non-essential services

As you may already know, Carleton University decided to close all non-essential services on campus starting Monday, March 16.

That said, here are the further changes we will be implementing at CUSA:

- All CUSA physical office spaces will be closed as of Monday, March 16th, until further notice. This includes, all of our businesses, our main office, service centres, clubs and societies office and internal departments.
- The CUSA health and dental plan will be offered remotely, please visit www.studentcare.ca. For any additional inquiries please email adil.tahseen@cusaonline.ca. EmpowerMe support services will also continue to be offered by phone and video.

Please see our previous statement regarding all other operational changes we have already implemented at CUSA. Here at CUSA we recognize that we are in uncharted waters and that many new developments may continue to unfold in the coming days and weeks. We will continue to hold open lines of communication with the Carleton community and we encourage our students to continue to follow preventative measures such as hand washing and social distancing.
