For Immediate Release

June 5th, 2018

Earlier this month, Carleton University Students' Association (CUSA), which is the primary advocate for 25,000+ Carleton University students who live and learn in the National Capital Region, sent an Open Letter to all the provincial election candidates of Ottawa Centre, Ottawa South, and Ottawa West Nepean. In the letter (link attached), CUSA outlined the need for governments to address the unregulated and continued increases in International student tuition, shortage of off-campus housing for students with disabilities, address sexual violence and rape culture, and to strengthen efforts to address mental well-being.

We were pleased to receive responses from the NDP, the NOTA Party, and the Green Party. Both the Liberal and PC parties did not respond.

David Oladejo, CUSA president has re-affirmed the Association's position and resolve to have these issues discussed and addressed, no matter what party is elected to the provincial legislature. To that end, David is available to speak to media to discuss the responses, as well as the strategy ahead.
